

Media outlets are regulated by the FCC to serve the public good. Relaxing the ownership standards will result in larger and larger corporations and fewer voices, fewer points of view. The FCC was founded to administer the airwaves for the American people not the corporations. I urge the committee to maintain the current standards, to do otherwise is obviously counter to your founding principles.